Egerton School Fair Proves Great Success

Pupils From a Dozen Schools Compete in Friendly Rivalry; Exhibition Gives Great Educational Stimulus

The first school fair held by the district of Egerton, Arm Lake, Aspen, Empire, Bloomington Valley, Battle Valley, Doley, Prospect Valley, Saddle Hill, Silgo and McCafferty was held at Egerton Friday October 1st.

The large number of exhibits and the interest shown by both old and young augurs well for succeeding years.

During the judging, sports were held for the children and lunch was served at noon by the Women's Institute.

During the day two lively games of basketball were played, one at 2.30 between the school teams of Egerton and Aspen resulting in a score of 16-5 in favor of Egerton and one at 6.30 between Egerton and Chateau with a score of 18-3 in favor of the latter.

A very enjoyable dance was given in Egerton's Hall in the evening at which quite a number were present.

NAVY LEAGUE WILL CONDUCT CAMPAIGN DURING NEXT WEEK

Canada's Great Lake steamboats make up the most wonderful short trip fleet in the world. This fact has been established to the satisfaction of practically every naval expert but is scarcely realized by the vast majority of Canadians. Rivers throughout the world play a very important part in the marine industry, and in Canada a chain of lakes is at their disposal. Those who think Winnipeg is for inland should change their viewpoint slightly when they are reminded that that city is only 400 miles from the great lake steamboats. Montreal and Quebec are coupled with the famous St. Lawrence river, while Toronto and all the Great Lake ports are in touch with the open waters of the Atlantic through the same artery of transportation.

Canada has also some of the finest natural harbors in the world. At Halifax and St. John's as well as at Quebec and Montreal all the world's largest freighters and passenger steamers call for cargoes. Ninety per cent of the ocean-going vessels could traverse the Great Lakes if the St. Lawrence river were deepened at a few points, and the romance of "Winnipeg by the sea" would then become a reality.

Support of the Navy League campaign, which will be inaugurated for a week beginning on October 15th, means encouraging national and imperial development of this character, and is worthy the attention of all our readers.

EDGERTON ECHOES

The school basketball team greatly enjoyed their outing at Wainwright on Friday and Saturday last. The kindness of the Wainwright people was much appreciated by the girls. A return match is being planned for about two weeks hence we understand.

We are sorry to report that Mr. Thos. Backus is still confined to his home.

Miss Jean Smith spent the week end as the guest of Miss Merle Mabey at the latter's home near Wainwright.

HARVEST THANKSGIVING SERVICES AT ALL THE METHODIST POINTS

For the first time in three years Wainwright Methodist will celebrate Thanksgiving in a thorough harvest fashion. The young people of Trailleur and Greenhills will decorate their respective schools for the Sunday afternoon service. Grace church patrons in Wainwright will also follow up the harvest observance, and the service will be in keeping with the occasion.

The friends of Guit Edge appointments will, therefore, attend at all the above mentioned festivals.

ROAMING CATTLE

Wainwright, Editor, Star:

Is it not time something was done to stop the nuisance in this town of roaming cattle. Of late there has been a herd of about 20 or 30 and last night I was annoyed by one of them about the house which carried a long distance bell. My son is dangerously ill, and as we have had little sleep, save at intervals for over two months one may well imagine what a nuisance we considered this. If one or two of the cattle were impounded and their owners fined, it might help a lot.

Charles Rodgwell.

REGULAR MEETING W. I.

The regular meeting of the Women's Institute was held on Saturday, October 9th, at the home of Mrs. J. Welch, ten members and one visitor being present. The small attendance is accounted for by the fact that threshing is now in full swing the women of the district being busily engaged providing the labor necessary to keep up the human energy at the business end of the separator. Mrs. Welch provided a dainty luncheon which was thoroughly enjoyed.

The fair booth committee reported that $173.85 was taken in there, and that, after all expenses had been paid it was hoped to have in the neighborhood of $75.00 clear. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Biss on Saturday, November 13th.

HARD WORK SECURES WELL APPOINTED GYM FOR OUR CITIZENS

A gymnasium for Wainwright will soon be an accomplished fact, the executive of the Wainwright Athletic club having made the interesting announcement that the sum of $400.00 necessary to start the scheme has been guaranteed through subscriptions from the following public spirited citizens, to whom the club and the citizens of the town extend their hearty thanks:

R. Aykroyd, Alberta, Restaurant, A.C. Armstrong, Atlas Lumber Co., F. Bell, S.R. Bell, D.O. Bisset, P.G. Carlyle, W.S. Clark, E.L. Cork, Empire Cafe, Fieldhouse and Hunter, J. Forrest, B.N. Tanguay, Telford and Wainwright Light, Berry Co., Creamery Co., Dr. H.C. Wallace, W.E. Washburn, Dr. S.E. Wiley, J. Wilkins.

This popular fund is now open to the public for general subscription; the object is most praiseworthy and its accomplishment will be a lasting benefit to the district and dominion in general. Donations may be made by cash to the Wainwright Athletic Club, or by cheque to either the Union or Merchants' Bank, here, addressed to P.O. Box 168. They will be gladly acknowledged through the columns of The Star.

LOCAL NOTES

Mrs. William Dewar is entertaining a visitor this week in the person of her sister, who arrived this week from the west.

Mr. Earl E. Cork, with his wife and family, moved to Chateau Sunday.

Steve Bowerman is announcing the following auction sales: J.T. Harden, four miles south of town, on October 27 at 1 o'clock and O.M. Nohelby, 12-45194, 6 miles S.E. of Irma, on October 26th. Both of these have a long list of the usual stock and effects.

SEMI MONTHLY CROP REPORTS

Cutting of grain has now been completed except some of the very late green feed. Harvesting has been carried on in ideal weather conditions over practically the whole province. Light rain hindered the central and northern parts of the province for a few days. Possibly 40 p.c. of the threshing is done, with a larger percentage in the south. The sample of wheat being received by the elevators is of first-class quality.

Estimates of yields of the different grains have been received from practically all of the crop correspondents, some reports have also been obtained from threshers. The average of these is as follows: wheat, 22 1/4 bushels per acre; barley, 20 1/2 bushels per acre. Information received by the Department goes to show that the railway companies have a large number of empty cars which are available for shipment of grain at a very low rate. The movement of grain and coal is likely to be heavy in the short time, so farmers are advised to ship all grain possible to the water front with a view to repelling the grain shortage later on. No advice as to the selling of this grain is being given as this must be left with the seller's judgment.

Wainwright Athletics Hold Big Celebration

Ladies' Basketball Contests Prove Added Drawing Card; Usual Line of Indoor Sports Are All Hotly Contested

The W.A.C. gave their supporters great enjoyment last Friday night in the skating rink, when the eliminating process was completed preparatory to the finals on Friday, October 15th. The handsome prizes shown in Zinkans store on Second Avenue will be presented by G.L. Hudson M.L.A. to the winners of the events to be held on Friday.

At 8 p.m. the W.L.B.C. took the field against the school teachers. Teams lined up as follows:

W.L.B.C.—Forwards, M. Bullion and Mrs. Johnson; Centre, L. Kenny and Mrs. Guards; Mrs. Gerow and Mrs. Miner.

Teachers—Forwards, Miss Stanford and Miss Howard; Centre, Miss Mayne and Mr. Bremner; Guards, Miss Anderson and F. Tory.

This was an excellent game and the town team took some time to get into their proper stride, for the teachers simply rushed the game from the start. Miss Stanford showing up with her usual brilliant play supported by Miss Howard and others. The score at half time was 10-0 in favor of the teachers. The W.L.B.C. was topped and ready to go to Nil. On resuming the town ladies played splendidly and showed pleasant marks. Mrs. Johnson was a stationery forming women, and the crowd applauded both sides showed all the players to be favorites. The teachers ran off winners by 40 points to 5 and deserved the great cheer the crowd gave. W.L.B.C. were beaten but not disgraced as we are all going to support them.

The boys 12' and under brought out a whole platoon and the starter had some job before him, however an excellent start saw all the boys and despite a few mishaps at the end of Gordon Kenny breast the tape ahead of Philip Wilkins. The scratch boy A. Snence fell when he was coming through in great style. Try and boys a piker never won anything.

Girls Skipping Race—Annie Watson and Audrey McLeod won their races and entered the final. Both girls ran well and Mary Fish also ran well.

Boys Race 12 to 15—Sam C. Johnson, K. Kenny, F. McLean and M. Mabey got away to a good start. K. Kenny ran a good race all the way and M. Mabey coming strongly in the last few yards just beat him on the tape. The line up in the finals is O. Kint, E. Kenny, M. Mabey, and K. Kenny a hard bunch to beat I tell the world.

220 yds Scratch Race—A. Gaudiche beat C. Harden after a hard race run in fair 1/2 mile walking contest—brought out Geo. Cross and A. Harden who woke up in the last lap and roused the crowd by stepping aside by side finishing in a dead heat. The final will line up A. Lackey, Geo. Cross, N. P. Priestley, and A. Harden.

Standing long jump—brought out no competitors so next week R. Smith, W. Blinn and B. Kitchin and any other.

Running high jump—Will see G. C. Siddall, B. Kitchin and Stan Kitchin and a good contest will result.

Putting the shot—J. Hedlund and A. Lackey qualified to meet Dr. Wallace E. Aykroyd, R. Hunter, and W. Blinn in the final.

STORY OF THE HORSE

There is no subject in the world of that momentary interest to so many of us as the horse. It is a creature of such steady grace and improvement along other lines the gramophone has arrived today at near the point of perfection. We can't all hear Edgewood after a hard day's work, drop in and hear extracts from leading operas. But through the medium of the gramophone, to hear we may revel in the best of modern science of affairs, and in so very can it be so readily assimilated as through the teachings in our little country schools. —Agricultural Alberta.

THE FRENCH CANADIAN HORSE

The French Canadian horse, which is comparatively little known outside the province of Quebec, is claimed to be one of the most durable and otherwise useful horses to be found anywhere in Canada. In bulletin 95 of the Experimental Farms, the author, Mr. Gus. Langelier, points out that this breed is descended from the old time French Canadian pony, sent from France to Canada by Louis XIV. These ponies were of the best that could be procured in their native land. They remained for three years the property of the king and were then distributed among the farmers of Canada; in order to encourage the development of agriculture.

Some 7 years ago the pedigree records for the French Canadian horse, maintained by the Quebec Government were transferred to the National Live Stock Record. Other steps have been taken to maintain the breed as pure as possible. One of the latest methods as pointed out in the bulletin which can be obtained from the Publishing Branch of the Department of Agriculture, Ottawa has been the establishment of a horse breeding farm

WINTER CALF FEEDING

(Experimental Farm notes.) In many, winter seems an off season in which to raise calves, but nevertheless it is a fact that most successful self-raisers find it to be the best season. In the first place the farmer has more time to give the proper attention to the details so important in calf feeding; secondly there is usually a greater supply of skim milk owing to the smaller numbers of pigs raised in the winter than in summer; lastly the calf has not got the summer heat and flies to contend with and is just at a nice age to turn to pasture the following spring.

When the calf is dropped it should be allowed to remain with its dam until she has licked it clean and dry or else be removed to a separate stall and rubbed dry with wisps of straw or a piece of burlap. If at all possible the winter raised calf should have the brightest, driest and sunniest place in the stable for winter quarters and they should be kept clean at all times for comfortable quarters mean almost as much as good feeding. The calf should receive within twelve hours, a feed of the colostrum or first milk from its dam. It is important the calf gets a feed of this milk as it has a beneficial effect on the bowels and ensures the calf getting the proper start. For the first few days the cow should be milked and the calf fed three times daily, the milk being fed while still at blood heat. Eight to ten pounds per day should be sufficient for the average calf. Feed the calf whole milk for at St. Joachim, situated some twenty-five miles east of Quebec city. This farm which is operated under the Experimental Farms system has some thirty well selected brood mares. These, together with fifteen of similar quality, kept on the experimental station at Cap Rouge, Que., form a collection from which it is hoped to produce a superior new foundation stock for the breed.

CARD OF THANKS

To His Excellency the Governor General, to the Lieutenant Governors of the Provinces, to the Federal and Provincial Governments, to the Railway of Canada, Canadian Pacific, Canadian National, Grand Trunk, Grand Trunk Pacific, Temiskaming and Northern Ontario, and Dominion Atlantic; to the Canada Steamship Company, Northern Navigation Company and Lake of the Huron Navigation Company; to the Mayors and Municipal Councils of Cities and Towns; to the Boards of Trade and Chambers of Commerce; to the Automobile Clubs; to the public companies; and to the private citizens of all Canada who have helped the success of the fall of the Imperial Press. Delivered, was due, the thanks of the General and Executive Committees of the Canadian Press are hereby tendered on behalf of the Canadian Press. ATHERTON, Chairman.

the first two to four weeks depending on its strength, a weak or puny calf being carried on whole milk for the longest period. Gradually change from whole milk to skim milk about ten days as abrupt changes are apt to bring on digestive troubles.

It is well to start the calf eating a little dry and bulky food as early as possible. With this end in view a small quantity of fine clover hay and whole oats should be kept before the calf after it is a month old. As the calf grows older the whole oats may be replaced by a mixture of bran, rolled oats and ground corn. Beans are a valuable feed for growing calves and may be introduced into the ration in small quantities when the calves are from two to three months of age. Silage should not be fed to very young calves and as it usually gets strong towards the later part of the winter, only very small quantities should be fed if used at all. Feed salt in limited quantities regularly. Provide fresh water but do not let the calves gorge themselves with it.

Strict attention should be paid to the cleanliness of the utensils and managers in which the calves are fed as well as to the box stalls in which they are quartered. The latter should be cleaned out at least once a week, and preferably often.

The above ration may seem heavy and the feeding of it a matter of some detail, but it is attention to these points that ensures well grown calves capable of developing into profitable mature animals.

U. F. W. A. MONTHLY MEETING

The regular monthly meeting of the Wainwright local met at the home of Mrs. A. E. Robinson on October 2nd at the usual hour. In the absence of our president, Mrs. A. Robinson kindly took the chair. The meeting opened in the usual way by minutes having been read and was discussed owing to so few members being present, but no doubt the housewife was in a great demand at home. Correspondence was read and discussed—chiefly on the coming referendum. Roll being called, the meeting adjourned to have afternoon tea, served daintily by Mrs. H. Jackson. The next meeting will be held at Mrs. Robinson's on November 8th a larger gathering is hoped for.

EDISON'S NEW DIAMOND AMBEROLA

Edison's Amberola is one phonograph that can successfully pass the critical test of a Free Trial in your home. Many purchasers of "talking machines" and ordinary phonographs have discovered too late that the machines didn't sound the same in their homes as in the store when they bought them—possibly because they had more time to note the shrillness and metallic sound of these machines in the quiet of their homes.

The pure tone of the Amberola will meet any test.

That is why we will gladly place one of Mr. Edison's wonderful phonographs right in your home for a three days' FREE Trial. This trial places you under no obligation whatever. It does not cost you one cent. Come to our store and select your Amberola and a dozen records. We will deliver these promptly to your home and compare the Amberola with any higher priced "talking machines" or commercial phonographs. At the end of the three days just let us know whether or not you wish to keep the Amberola—that is all.

Moreover, if the Amberola's pure musical tone, permanent Diamond Point Reproducing and long-lasting Amberol records have convinced you, we will arrange the most satisfactory terms of payment you could wish. As this Free Trial offer is only for a limited time, we urge you to call or write to us at once. Talk it over with the family tonight—and let us hear from you tomorrow.

A MYSTERIOUS MURDER UNRAVELLED BY THE POLICE—THE TITLE OF "ROYAL" BESTOWED ON THE FORCE IN 1904—LORD MINTO APPOINTED HON. COMMISSIONER—PATROL DUTY—STAMPING OUT PRAIRIE FIRES.

One of the strangest cases which the North West Mounted Police had to handle in Canada was connected with the murder of a man named Hayward, and the bringing to justice of the man who had put him to death. In 1904 an Englishman named Hayward made a company of travel with Charles King, and during the fall took the trail to the Lesser Slave Lake from Edmonton. In those days there was little or no settlement in the north country, and for a time the wayfarer disappeared as completely as though swallowed up by the wilderness. Late in October when the ice was already beginning to form on the edges of the sloughs and lakes, and there was the tang of approaching winter in the air, the Indians at Sucker Creek took notice of a solitary traveller. This was King who had been Hayward's companion. He was riding a good horse and had three pack animals with him and a dog trailed along behind.

noticed that the dog seemed to pay little attention to his master and only followed him very reluctantly. This circumstance was repeated around the Indian camp and the Indians, more by intuition than anything else, came to the conclusion that there was something wrong. An Indian came in to the camp the same day, stating that he had seen two white men making camp, and that during the night he had heard a shot and in the morning only one man was visible. The chief of the band, an Indian named Mootoose, thought that these circumstances were suspicious and sent a message to the nearest North West Mounted Police post.

SALEMANS WANTED
In every good town and district, in the Prairie Provinces, to represent "CANADA'S GREATEST NURSERY." Big list of general nursery stock, fruit and ornamental plants, etc., recommended by West and for a time the wayfarer disappeared as completely as though swallowed up by the wilderness. Late in October when the ice was already beginning to form on the edges of the sloughs and lakes, and there was the tang of approaching winter in the air, the Indians at Sucker Creek took notice of a solitary traveller. This was King who had been Hayward's companion. He was riding a good horse and had three pack animals with him and a dog trailed along behind.

In the meantime he took a party of Indians and examined most carefully the camping ground where the two men had been seen. While he was engaged in this work Sergeant Anderson of the Police, accompanied by a constable, arrived, and the matter was taken in hand.

Charred Remains
The sergeant dug in the cold ashes of the fire and found some charred pieces of human bone. The Indians now remembered that they had seen a big blaze the night of the suspicious happenings. They also found nearby a human heart and some pieces of flesh. There was a slough near at hand and the Indians pointed out to him their bare feet and they came upon a pair of boots, in the toes of which were stuffed gold nuggets and several other articles, subsequently identified as having belonged to Hayward. King was arrested and removed to Edmonton where he was tried. A number of articles were identified as the property of Hayward and his murderer was hanged at the police barracks at Fort Saskatchewan.

A Strange Dream
There was a remarkable and tragic incident in connection with this affair. The murder was proved to have taken place on the 18th September, 1904, and on that same night Henry Hayward, the brother of the murdered man had a dream which he described the next morning to the members of his family as being vivid and realistic. He had a vision of the north country and saw his brother and another man sitting around a fire. He saw his brother shot and his remains cremated. The features of the murderer were indelibly impressed upon his mind and he afterwards identified the picture of King. This dream took place long before any word was received by the police of the tragedy.

"Royal" North West Mounted Police

1904 was a milestone year in the career of the Mounted Police because in the Canada Gazette, June 24 it was announced that His Majesty the King had been graciously pleased to confer the title of "Royal" upon the North West Mounted Police. This was due to the efforts of Lord Minto, Governor General, who during a number of trips in the west had come closely in contact with members of the splendid body. At the same time the post of Hon. Commissioner of the force was created and was offered to Lord Minto, who accepted it. A bill was also passed in parliament providing for pensions for officers of the N.W.M.P.

Patrol Duty

During the early days of the present century when conditions were becoming more settled and many settlers were flocking to the country, the members of the N.W.M.P. performed patrol duty which unquestionably saved many lives. Numbers of new settlers were passing their first winter on the prairie and some of them had very little experience in making preparations to withstand the rigors of the climate.

There was a succession of unusually severe winters and some of those on prairie homesteads suffered severely. The patrol riders of the Mounted Police were always on duty visiting these outlying homesteads and bringing relief to those suffering from unaccustomed conditions. There is no doubt that many lives were saved in this manner and much suffering alleviated.

The Fire Rangers

Vigorous attempts were also made to stamp out the prairie fires which were so common in the country. I remember well, being present on the western prairie and watching the effective manner in which the scarlet riders handled the situation. A long tongue of fire had come in from the Saskatchewan river, crossed Swift Creek and was spreading westward. A strong wind was blowing and tongues of fire were climbing the northern escarpment of the Missouri Coteau. The south country had not been burned for years; it was rough with old bottom and the ranchers as they saw clouds of smoke ascending, knew their range was in serious danger. Four Mounted Police galloped up and hurried to where some settlers were beating at the fire as it climbed the gravel ridges. As the police galloped up the sergeant sprang to the ground. There was a bunch of cattle feeding nearby.

He removed his rifle from the holster and taking a quick shot dropped a big steer that was standing with its head in the air. Almost instantly most of the meat was removed leaving the skin and some of the entrails intact, but all bloody. One of the policemen

The lariats were made fast to the horns of the books, from which we can learn so much, and from which we can derive real relaxation. A FEW RAMBLING REMARKS
BY A PRAIRIE WOMAN

LULLABY! O LULLABY!

Baby hush that little cry
Light is dying.

Bees today with work have done;
So, till comes the morrow's sun
Let sleep kiss those bright eyes
And

Lullaby! O Lullaby!

Lullaby! O Lullaby!
Hush! it's all things far and high;
Flowers are closing

Birds reposing
All sweet things with life are done.
Sweet, till dawns the morning sun
Sleep, then kiss those blue eyes dry.

Lullaby! O Lullaby!

A short time ago, on a lovely afternoon, I came across a young friend of mine, sitting on the steps of a wide veranda, poring with a puzzled air over a book.

"Well, what is the tale?" I asked gaily, she was preparing by the way for a teacher's examination.

She held up the book with an expression of disgust and replied: "No tale at all, just lessons!"

I looked at the book and saw that it was "Kenilworth Castle" I gazed at her in wide-eyed surprise, for it seemed incredible that a supposedly intelligent young woman of eighteen could be reading that novel, even though it were an historical one, just as a dry study.

I made no comment, but passed on, my mind wandering back, as it often does, to a quiet schoolroom, in another land, some years ago, and also a peaceful summer afternoon. The classroom was bright and airy; flowering plants graced the window ledge which ran down one side of the room. About twenty girls sat at their desks sewing diligently, on their dark garments, and at the desk which faced the class sat one girl reading aloud. I was one of the workers. I loved those sewing afternoons, although at the time I detested sewing, but all week looked forward to the afternoon on which we sewed, because of the story which was read aloud to us, and in this way we went through the history of the classics and the patient explanation of our teacher, learned to love and understand them: David Copperfield; The Old Curiosity Shop; Vanity Fair; and John Halifax Gentleman.

As I now look back and think of that gracious woman, who endeavored so hard and so successfully to implant in us a love for the best and finest in literature, I realize what a wonderful teacher she was. She taught real lessons, while we thought she was entertaining us. I am quite sure that there is not one of that twenty who don't look back with thought of love and gratitude to her, for the priceless gift she gave us. I often think that there is really an excuse for a lovely, dissatisfied woman in a world such as ours, where there is so much to interest; so much to learn and so much to be done. Failing interest immediately around us, there is the world of books, from which we can learn so much, and from which we can derive real relaxation. Dickens with his whimsical expressions and his clever character sketches—whether they are caricatures or not, we have all seen a good many close resemblances to them in real life—an endless source of entertainment; and in all the world of books I do not believe that there is anything more humanly interesting and lifelike than George Eliot's "Mrs. Poyser" and the wonderful Poyser farm. But there is no necessity to digress further, you have probably read them long ago, and if not you have a real feast in store.

Arrival in a Western City
Although the journey to the west had not seemed so very long because I was so interested in looking out, and had much to think about, and besides had the company of Philip, yet I was very glad when the train steamed into the station and we had at last reached our destination.

Albert was so glad to see us. It was a very cold night, just a week before Christmas, and we all felt rather shivery as we sat in the taxi which was to take us to our room. Room! That abomination of modern times, the most hateful condition of existence which can be imagined. To my mind having to live in rooms is about the worst agony that can be inflicted upon a woman, although there are some women who can make real homes out of rooms, and in these days it behooves every woman to be able to make a home in what would once have been considered unheard-of places. The rooms are not very much, dear, said Albert, but they are all I could get because of the child. Plenty of people would be glad to take you and I, but when you mention that there is a baby or a child they immediately close their doors.

and a stove, also dishes in order that we might eat. The bedroom is none too clean and it contains a bed, a bureau, a small table and a very uncleanly looking mat on the floor. It is simply impossible and as I think of my first neat little home, my heart aches.

The landlady is a tall, stout, slovenly person. The first night we arrived she came upstairs, looked us over and said good-night. She knew we had come a long long journey and that it was a cold, miserable night, but she never entered her head to offer us a cup of tea, as an ordinarily kind hearted woman would have done.

Life in this house is a nightmare. I feel as though I shall go insane. A heavy weight wreathes practices his stunts over our head, usually choosing an hour when Philip has gone to take his nap; an amateur violinist delights our ears in the next room; a gramophone plays for an hour or more all the latest popular "hits" and below stairs the landlady signs in a very high pitched voice all over the house, while her offspring renders duets on violin and piano when they feel so inclined.

Poor Albert is almost heart-broken. His business keeps him very busy and he has no time to locate anything better, and as a matter of fact he is not like his old self—seems distrustful and absent-minded. He worries me, but I must do something for myself. Today our landlady informed me she has reserved a cupboard in one of our two rooms for her own private use, which means that she feels at liberty to walk in there when she chooses. The house too is extremely cold and the worst of the winter is not upon us yet. I know we cannot afford some of the terrible rents I hear are charged, but just the same neither can we afford to stay in this sordid demeaning place and I shall start to hunt for a place to live at once.

Bake in a round tin, lined with buttered paper, for three-quarters of an hour. Decorate the top of the cake with a few half walnuts.

FIRE PREVENTION

By Royal Proclamation, His Excellency the Governor General of Canada designated October 9th, 1920 as "Fire Prevention Day".

Fire is a disease; it is caused by the unhealthy conditions of a building. These conditions may be organic, that is, part of the building itself, or may be functional, that is, part of the operation carried on in the building; both of these conditions it is your duty to remedy. This epidemic touches the pocket of every man, woman and child in the country, and enters into the cost of everything we eat, drink and wear; its ravages are certainly of sufficient economic import to impress upon us the realization that the price of safety in this respect is eternal vigilance and community co-operation. If you are of a different opinion be convinced that the need of being constantly reminded is born of the necessity for greater carefulness in our attitude towards this disease.

Canada heads the list in loss ratio. One of the reasons may be found in the following quotation which characterizes the attitude of the people toward the fire problem.

"This passing strange, that people are so blind to their real interests. We look upon any expenditure made for fire protection as just so much loss—something paid out to satisfy some one's mere whim. We resent any advice of the kind and feel that it is a reflection upon us and our judgment. A man who talks about fire protection before-hand is a fanatic, something to be shunned, a fellow who merely wishes to disturb the beneficent calm of existing conditions. We prefer to take the one-in-six hundred chance of being the next to be burned out and then wall and wailing our hands and lament the terrible loss Providence has visited upon us."

"There's no denying it, but as a nation we don't like advice, we love to be bitten—or burned—and to learn by hard experience. We have little use for fire-protection experts who tell us how the fire occurred and how unfortunate it was and how sad, and who can so readily and unctiously mix their scolding tears of sweet responsiveness and sympathy with those we shed over the terrible afflictions visited upon us by an unkind Providence, of Fate. We despise and shun the wise doctor, the preventer of ills, the corrector of evils, but we just love the corner."

We believe that the greatest value for time and money expended is obtainable by a course of instruction to the children of our Province through the schools. We urgently request the Board of School Trustees of every city, town, village and rural community to make arrangements for a short talk by the fire chief, principal of the school or other qualified person, on the subject of Fire Prevention to the children of their school on Friday the 8th day of October. The main topic of such an address would be CAREFULNESS. The fact, that 75% of our fire loss is attributable to carelessness, is surely a serious indictment against an intelligent and progressive people—an indictment against our "habits".

This address could also include some comment upon some of the common precautions for the prevention of fire.

1. Removal of rubbish that may have accumulated around the premises.
 2. Danger of dumping ashes near wood.
 3. Danger of children playing with matches.
 4. Danger of fire from over-heated stoves, the furnace pipes improperly protected from wood-work.
 5. Oily rags and waste often causes spontaneous combustion.
 6. Care in handling gasoline.
 7. Danger of attempting to light fires with coal oil.
- Elsewhere in this issue you will find the third part of the series this department is distributing on methods of fire prevention, and it will be worth your while following this series to the end. These cards do not convey any new truths, but they contain a big idea the idea of educating every boy and girl in Alberta to think, act and talk fire prevention. As parent or guardian of some boy or girl, you have a share in this important work; you take the trouble to advise them to be careful in their habits, encourage them to be constantly upon the look out for hazardous conditions about your own premises. It will pay you in dollars and cents without considering any possible sacrifice of life, which sacrifice is beyond computation. Fire prevention is the work of to-day; it may be too late to-morrow.

PREVENTION IS BETTER THAN CURE!

Further points on the Prevention of Fire. Read carefully and watch for cards to follow.

3. Deposit ashes in a pit four feet in depth, at least thirty feet from any building.
4. As pipe ashes, cigar and cigarette stubs are excellent agencies to start fires, you should not allow smoking in or around your outbuildings.

Storage Battery Talks BY A. DUPRE

TO CAR OWNERS

Packing
Carelessness on the part of railroad employees in handling goods in general necessitates the careful packing of a battery. Moreover, on account of the presence of sulphuric acid, which will destroy or damage anything it comes in contact with, all the express companies insist upon having batteries properly packed in a special box for shipment. Therefore, do not criticize the service man if he packs your battery accordingly, even if he charges for it.

When to Buy a New Battery
The necessity of buying a new battery is always rather a disappointment to most car owners, and to a certain extent, his decision to do so is in the hands of the service man. For this reason, it is important to know when you are dealing with.

The following policy is very safe: if you have to pay half or more of the price of a new battery to have an old one repaired, buy a new one. Beware of the service man who tells you that by spending so much money you will have a battery as good as new, for it is not the case and it cannot be. Supposing a new battery cost $40 and you are asked $25 to have an old one repaired, it is advisable to buy a new one. You may get $25 worth of service out of the old one, and you may not get $40 worth. To answer the question in a few words, in one case you invest $40, in the other you invest $25.

VELVET FREIGHT RATES

We are all more or less interested in the higher freight rates—because we are the people who will pay them—but it is only a question of a difference to whom we pay these higher rates. So far as the National Lines are concerned, we would have to bear these higher rates if not in freight rates, they then in taxes. Indeed it seems a good plan to spread the temporary burden of our national lines over all the people and the full year. But as it is decided, considerable reflection to bear in mind that we are paying half these velvet freight rates to the Canadian Pacific Railway, to whose 40,000 shareholders the Western "country" at any rate owes nothing more than it must pay. It is becoming increasingly evident that the Canadian rail line situation is neither logical nor tenable. Either the C. P. R. must absorb the C. N. R. or vice versa. It is not going to be feasible for a private corporation to compete with the people of Canada. It might be advisable to meet the higher costs of operation out of the Dominion Treasury for a year or two—allowing C. P. R. of funds to draw on their "Victory Bond" accumulations. For a year or two—and by that time it would be clear that no private concern, however powerful, interests in different lines, is a match against the people of Canada, located along either Canadian National or Canadian Pacific Lines. Pity these latter folk for they pay into both treasuries.

RETURNED SOLDIERS INSURANCE ACT NOW IN FORCE

All returned soldiers and their families will be interested in the Returned Soldiers Insurance Act, under which they are provided with an opportunity of obtaining Life Insurance at most favorable rates. The Act became effective on September 1st, 1920, and will remain in force for two years.

Under the provisions of the Act any honorably discharged soldier, sailor, or nurse of the Canadian Forces domiciled and resident in Canada, may insure with the Government to an amount of from $500.00 to $5,000.00. Under certain conditions the widow of a returned soldier, who died subsequent to discharge may also obtain insurance.

In addition to former members of the C. E. F., the privileges of the Act are available to any one male or female who served during the late war in the Imperial army or with the forces of any of the allied or associated powers, provided they were domiciled and resident in Canada before the war and hold an honorable discharge. The premium rates are low and vary with the age of the insured and the plan of insurance chosen. An exceptional advantage of this insurance is the provision made for a disability benefit.

Booklets explaining the Act and application forms may be obtained from all branches of the G.W.V.A. or direct from the Commissioners, Returned Soldiers' Insurance, Ottawa.

ECHOES OF PRESS ASSOCIATION VISIT

The following lines by "On-looker" are taken from the Montreal Star of the 29th ult. and starts what will surely prove the greatest advertising campaign our town has known:

"The delegates to the Imperial Press Conference—news paper proprietors and publishers and newspaper editors from the Motherland and the Dominions overseas—have been doing their duty and adding to their pleasure by seeing Canada. They have crossed Canada from east to west and back again, with side trips into the upper part of the West, that is, the upper part according to the man and not according to the flow of the rivers. They have seen much that surprised and pleased, and perhaps considerable that really astonished. If they saw some things and conditions calling forth unfavorable criticism, they have kept the criticism to themselves."

"One visit that seems to have given them much pleasure was that paid to Wainwright in Alberta. What they saw there was something of a wonder, and at the same time a reminder to Canadians of the success that has attended the efforts of the Government to prevent the buffalo becoming extinct. A few years ago a couple of hundred or so of buffalo were purchased and turned into a large enclosed area of prairie, and hills, pastures, meadow, and woodland, and in this large and natural environment the buffalo have thrived and increased."

"According to a recent report of the Park Superintendent, the animals in the Park are 3,560 buffalo, 102 elk, 420 mule deer, 25 moose, a few antelope, cattalo, and domestic cattle, making a total animal population of 4,140. The domestic cattle have been brought in for the purpose of crossing with the buffalo, the offspring being known as cattalo. The domestic cattle used are thoroughbred Hereford bulls."

"The visiting press delegates motored into the park, where a number of buffalo, elk and moose had been carried out. Fully two hundred buffalo, bulls, cows and calves—were seen at close range."

AGRICULTURE PUBLICATION FOR DISTRIBUTION

The Department of Agriculture at Ottawa includes in its available publications some four hundred titles which embrace practically every phase of farming in its broadest sense in Canada. In the miscellaneous list is included "Farm Feeds," "The Use of Coarse Grain for Human Food," and a new edition of "The Maple Sugar Industry in Canada." All these publications are for the free use of the citizens of Canada and are obtainable for the asking from the Publications Branch of the Department of Agriculture at Ottawa.

THE PROVINCIAL POLICE—AND THE BANDITS—A SUBSTITUTE FOR CORN—A TREMENDOUS YIELD—GOOD WORK OF THE C.P.R.

It is not for us to criticize the actions of the provincial police in the province of Saskatchewan. The R.N.W.M.P. left them a legacy in the shape of reputation and efficiency that they would be more than human if they lived up to. Nevertheless, they appear to have been doing their duty extremely well. They have not the military organization, nor many of the facilities possessed by their predecessors in policing the country and it is not to be wondered at if comparisons are made to their disadvantage. Nevertheless, they have been going about their work in an efficient manner; tremendous journeys often under the most arduous conditions, have had to be undertaken; dangerous criminals have been dealt with; and almost impossible conditions overcome.

There is, however, a disposition to criticize some of the methods employed in the final extinction of the bandit gang which raided a portion of northern Saskatchewan. The members of the band were foreigners, heavily armed, who, when summoned to surrender, fired on the police on several occasions. They were said to be Bolshevik propagandists, and they were unquestionably dangerous to life and law. Two of them were surrounded whilst eating a meal in a house and they surrendered at discretion. Two others followed them selves in a haystack and when summoned to give themselves up replied with volleys of bullets. The police surrounded the haystack, and from vantage points opened fire upon them. The hay was eventually set on fire and the dead bodies of the criminals were found in the ashes.

The robbers were thus effectually put out of business, but people are beginning to ask themselves if the method followed to attain that end was not somewhat drastic. It did not use to be the plan of the North West Mounted Police to kill the criminals they were after, but rather the price them sound in limb and body so that they might appear before the bar of justice to receive the award of their misdeeds at the hands of a properly constituted tribunal. It is not a good precedent for police officers to kill their men if it is possible to avoid it. From the press despatches we learn that the provincial police posse had surrounded the haystack, and to the ordinary lay mind it appears as if it would have been possible to have breast their lair in such a way that they could not escape, and that starvation would have eventually forced them to come out and surrender.

There may have been circumstances that made such a course impossible, but if so, there was no mention of them in the press despatches. We are not offering these remarks in the way of capious criticism, but our constabulary must be very jealous of their manner of dealing with criminals in this country; and there must be no emulation of the methods of the American sheriff in pursuing criminals. It was a tradition in the North West Mounted Police that a gun was never to be pulled except in the direst extremity, and that is a pretty good rule for the provincial police to follow.

In these columns we have repeatedly referred to the cultivation of sunflowers as a source of future wealth for Western Canada. It has been the aim of agriculturalists for some time past to find a crop—particularly a fodder crop—that would take the place of summer fallow. This aim has been achieved at least as a result of the experiments carried on at the Strathmore Experimental Farm, owned by the C.P.R. Last year it was proved beyond doubt that sunflowers would make the best crop of early grain grown on the prairie. The yield was astonishing that it was thought that perhaps it might be the result of freak conditions. This year's experiments, however, should have the result of establishing sunflowers as the crop par excellence of the prairie country.

At Strathmore this year, a plot of twenty-five acres were sown to sunflowers. Last week the harvesting was not completed, but there was every indication of a yield of from twenty-five to thirty tons to the acre. This is an astonishing return and adds tremendously to the value of the land. In this western country, where growth is so prolific, it is essential to practice the summer fallow method to keep the weeds down, or else to plant a crop that can be cultivated between the rows. The latter method, of course, is the economically correct one, but it has been difficult to find a suitable crop. Corn is, of course, the ideal cereal for this purpose, but so far we have not been able to successfully plant it on the wheat plains of the west. The only reason why the heavy land of Saskatchewan and Alberta and portions of Manitoba have not reached the values of three or four hundred dollars an acre attained in Iowa and Minnesota and other middle western states, is because they are not corn producing regions. It looks now, however, as if sunflowers would fill the bill very creditably. One found in the ashes.

thing is sure, the successful cultivation of this product will give a tremendous stimulus to the raising of livestock and thus add to the agricultural value of the country.

Sunflowers are sown in rows and in the early stages of their development cultivation may be carried on by hand. There is some little difficulty, however, in harvesting, owing to a thickness of the stalks and their immense height, which, in some instances is twelve to fourteen feet. Fairly good work, however, has been done by corn binders, but as these implements are only manufactured to handle stalks eight feet in height, considerable difficulty is encountered. However, should the growing of sunflowers become at all universal, binders to handle the work will soon be produced.

The Canadian Pacific Railway

Company are arranging to have moving pictures made of the cultivation of sunflowers and they should prove an object lesson to all those interested in the agricultural development of Western Canada. Horses and cattle are said to prefer sunflower ensilage to all other feeds.

CHILDREN'S CORNER

The Children of Today Are the Parents and Citizens of Tomorrow. In Years to Come Will Be in Their Hands.

My Dear Boys and Girls:

I am printing a letter from one of our readers which I think you will agree with me is very interesting. I enjoyed reading it, as indeed I enjoy all our boys and girls' letters, and next week I am going to print a letter from a boy. As he is the only boy who has yet written to me, I think his letter deserves a corner to itself. I would very much like to know what you all do with yourselves during the long winter months, how to manage to school, and what you do during the long evenings when it is impossible to go out. I wish some of you would write and tell me about this.

Of course the boys and girls of our own country are very interesting to us, but as our correspondent suggests this week, the boys and girls of other countries their ways and occupations must also be interesting and very soon I am going to tell you each week about the boys and girls of some other country.

Pay your out-of-town accounts by Dominion Express Money Orders. Five Dollars costs three cents.

other country so that when you are at school, at play, or helping at home, you may be able to think what the young people in some far off land is doing too, and in that way you will have a broader outlook on life than if you remembered only your own immediate circle and your own country and you know hearing and learning about other countries will make you love your own country more.

We have been having beautiful fall weather lately, have not I? I suppose you are enjoying every minute of it. Personally I think that the autumn, while it is sad because it tells of the death that comes to all things, is yet a very beautiful season of the year, and methinks in the beautiful colors of the dying leaves we have the promise of life that is yet to come after death.

I will not write more to you now, but shall hope to have letters from you soon. I am taking the names and addresses of all the boys and girls who are enjoying placing their name on a list for Secret Service Club, and as soon as we have sufficient we will make arrangements to form the club. So if you have not already written please do not postpone the matter any longer, write at once to Aunt Betty, 903 McCulloch Hill Building, Regina, Sask.

CRUSOE'S RETURN TO ENGLAND

One day an English ship came in sight and from it a number of men landed near Crusoe's house. They brought three prisoners. At dusk when the men were asleep, Crusoe approached the captives and found they were the officers of the ship. There had been a mutiny on board.

Crusoe released the three men and the captain was restored to his ship, and leaving the survivors of the mutineers on the island, Crusoe, taking Friday with him, left the island on December 19, 1686, the second day of the month on which he made his escape from Saltee. He arrived in England June 11, 1687, after an absence of thirty-five years. Soon after he found that his estate had been managed so well during his absence that he was worth $5,000 a year. He afterwards married and settled down in Bedfordshire, England. But after his wife's death the old roving spirit came upon him once again and he started out revisiting his island, which had now become a thriving colony. Eventually he reached London, on January 10, 1705, after another absence of over ten years.

"Here," he says, "I resolved to prepare for a longer journey than all those I had yet taken, having lived a life of infinite variety, served two years and ten months in the value of retirement and the blessing of ending our days in peace."

Letter to Aunt Betty

Erskine, Alta., Sept. 7, 1920

Dear Aunt Betty:

I will answer your letter and tell you all I can. I am very glad there is a Children's Corner in the Erskine paper, for I am very fond of reading. I am very much in favor of a Service Club of our own. I am 16 years old, and I am in the seventh grade. I like drawing very much, I like all the other studies except history and geography. The games I like the best are "Pomp, Pomp, pull away." Ribbons and Rounders; but I much rather do fancy work or read. I am five feet and six inches tall, and I am rather stout. I have blue eyes and fair hair. It does not matter what I do out-of-door work or hobbies. I like to do either. I always like to be out in the woods and fields, for I like to watch the grain, grass and flowers grow. I like the best of all to hear the birds sing so merrily, their sweet songs. I also like to pick berries, but I do not like the wasps which you are almost sure to run across there near the picking berries. I have got stuck by them twice this year already. I am going to school at present, and wish I could go to school all the time, but can't, for I have to stay

RIOT OF GILT EDGE, NO 42

In the first place there is steady development in the cattle industry. It is shown in an all around interest in better stock, better methods of raising and more attention to marketing needs, both for the live trade and for packing plants. Losses caused by the extremely low feed storage last winter are now estimated at about ten per Supplies of beef are not cut into as much at first sight as appear. But, in the second place, the supplies of hogs are down far below expectations. Many of the Western packing plants are handling less than 40 per cent. of hogs compared with two years ago. The slaughter of breeding sows has been of incalculable damage. A round fifty per cent drop in none too much to attribute to the hog trade. Not only did this unfavorable price control and everybody able to judge explores the fact but they point to good prices for wheat and shrug their shoulders without prophesying too much. The opportunity for hogs in the East will be improved.

Yet, one finds a pretty clear recognition that the Canadian bacon trade ought to offer bright prospects. Farmers and stockmen openly rejoice in knowing that the American hog is too fat for the Canadian and export trade. One picking a plant not long ago experimented with hog carcasses brought in not 180 miles from over the inter national line but in each shipment, though they specified low weights to their buyers, the hogs were too fat for either export Wiltshire or domestic cuts. Of course this could be overcome by breeding the right type and proper feedings.

The two conditions in the Western livestock industry might be summarised as follows:

1. A steady, cautious turn towards increased numbers of cattle of better quality:
2. A sudden slump in the numbers of hogs for which there appears to be no remedy for the next twelve months and which indicates that in view of the abundant crop of cereal now is the time to get into hogs.

You can tell about the coal you've burned since coming to the West. Perhaps you think the kind you used undoubtedly the best. But the kind I want to talk about is in a class alone. When you've tried it you'll agree with me—there's none like Humberstone.

It's the kind that makes the housewife smile and keeps the cookstove red. It's the kind that bank the furnace with before you go to bed. It's the kind that never clinkers and is free from slack and bone. It's the kind on which to stake your life. It's good old Humberstone.

A story I will tell you and it won't take long to tell. By adding up the folks one day ran short of coal in 1914. So old Sam called up Number Ten and got us on the phone. And said: "Please send me 'P.D.Q.' a ton of Humberstone."

"The coal we're burning isn't good, it won't stay in all night. The thermometer, you know, should be one million Fahrenheit. But I'll make all these poor devils for their sinful ways alone. When I have got delivery of a ton of Humberstone."

Now here his majesty had put the receiver on the hook. And just as we were entering the order in the book. There came a rumbling over the wire—a dire and awful groan—For it is a bunch heard Satan ordering a ton of Humberstone.

So if you want the best there is, don't hold your order. When you get next to a telephone, just call up NUMBER TEN. And when they say: "Now, look here, Clute, I won't let you alone. 'Lil as you've filled my cellar up with Good Old Humberstone."
